

INVESTIGATING

GRIEVANCES

The information included in this “Investigating Grievances” booklet was presented to the members of the Kentucky-Indiana-Michigan Region, (Region 6) Ron Brown, NBA, Ernie Haynes (Indiana), and Jim Korolowicz (Michigan), Regional Administrative Assistants with assistance from Ernie Kirkland (Kentucky), Assistant to NBA Brown, during the October 10-11, 1999 Fall Training Seminar held at the Sheraton Hotel, Lansing, MI.

There was a “class” assignment attached on investigating grievances that would not serve any purpose unless you were there. Consequently it has been excluded.

Once you get past the text of this piece you will find at the end the “meat” of this document. For those of you who don’t have access to the NALC Arbitration 10 CD Disk set or the search engines accompanying them, you can now do a topical search for the necessary arbitration awards. Beginning with Defenses to Discipline and moving through Contractual and then ending with Discipline you will be able to locate a topic, and then be able to cross reference the “Cigar” number.

Although those of us in the K-I-M Region would like to credit our NBA and his staff for this excellent piece, but more than likely this search document originated from NALC Headquarters. This most recent issue you are receiving was updated September, 1999.

“How’d he do that?”

The page numbering sequence you will find at the bottom of those pages is only specific to the document prior to its conversion to PDF, which I did by scanning directly into Adobe Exchange.

Also, I reformatted the instructions on “Investigating Grievances” in WordPerfect 8.0, cleaning up the original so it would have a “better” look to it. It has been edited for clarity. However, for the most part the text remains as it is in the “original” document.

The sections pulled from the MRS were printed using the December 1998 PDF edition. I printed them to an HP5 Laserjet, and then scanned them into this document via Adobe Exchange. Because of the condition of the ASM piece, I “grabbed” the section from Kathy Higgins (NALC Branch No. 79, Seattle, WA) Carrier Connection web site where she has it listed in HTML the latest issue of the ASM. I then reformatted it in WordPerfect 8.0 and converted it to PDF using Adobe PDF Writer, and then inserted it via the original PDF document.

When it came to getting the three main booklet categories in, they were not “touched” up, except for removing the page borders which show up black. They should be out.

I am offering this explanation as to “how’d he do that” because I have been asked many times, “how’d you do that?” That’s how I did that. In all it took me four hours to finish.

As always, should you have any questions don’t hesitate to contact me.

Yours in unionism

INVESTIGATING GRIEVANCES

Stewards have broad powers to investigate grievances, as well as problems that may become grievances. These powers are set out in Articles 17 and 31 of the contract, and they include:

1. The right to interview people to get the facts. You may interview the grievant (or potential grievant), supervisors., and witnesses - including witnesses who are not postal employees.
2. The right to review and obtain Postal Service documents, files, or other records. It is your right under the contract and under the labor laws to get the information you need to investigate and process grievances and potential grievances. You also have the right to obtain copies of written information at no or a nominal cost. This cost is based on the number of documents needed.
3. The right to investigate on-the-clock. Management may not unreasonably deny your requests to investigate and adjust grievances or possible grievances on-the-clock.

These are your basic powers set out in the contract and backed up by the labor laws. They are yours to use. But how you use them is up to you.

As you know, effective grievance-hand ling is an art, and a profession, all to itself. There are no magic formulas telling you how to investigate each grievance. Every grievance is different, so the best way to learn grievance investigation is through experience.

But there are a few basic things the steward can do to improve grievance investigation and thereby improve the quality and strength of our grievances.

First: A grievance should be investigated before it is filed. The facts should be “fathered” first, and then the decision whether to file a grievance should be made. If a grievance is filed first and questions are asked later, the system gets clogged up with grievances that the union knows very little about, that may be frivolous, and that will probably be denied. Then if the grievance is appealed, it will have to be investigated anyway before the issues can be discussed and resolved. However, this is how the system should work. The full set of facts should be found out, presented and discussed at Step 1.

Second: You should interview any supervisors connected in any way with the potential grievance before the grievance is initiated. Your right to interview supervisors is established in Article 17, Section 3.

The investigation interview is conducted to learn managements version of the facts. Therefore, the interview is not a grievance meeting and it is not the place to argue about the merits of the case. Instead, the interview should be restricted to questions by the union representative and answers by the supervisor.

By learning management's version of the facts before the Step 1 meeting you can determine where disputes about the facts exist, and where both sides agree about the facts.

By determining where disputes over the facts exist, you can determine where you need to investigate further. If, for example, the grievant told you that he arrived at a restaurant at 12:00 sharp, but the supervisor says the grievant arrived at the restaurant at 11:00, a factual dispute exists. To resolve that dispute you will have to investigate further to try to determine whether additional evidence – something other than the word of the supervisor or the grievant – is available to indicate which side is correct.

Finding out where factual disputes exist is an important reason for interviewing supervisors before a grievance is initiated, but there is another reason why this practice should always be followed: By interviewing the supervisor early, and making a written record of the supervisor's version of the facts, management's position is effectively frozen at that level. Once you document management's story, it is difficult for management at later steps of the procedure to invent new facts, or to discover new facts not revealed by the supervisor during the pre-Step 1 interview. Often management's position at the supervisory level is easy to attack – but once management's labor relations specialists and attorneys get involved, our job becomes more difficult.

A third point, involves the question: How do we know what to investigate? The answer is: Investigate until every possible question is answered and every imaginable bit of documentation is obtained.

When a problem is brought to you, think of every possible angle, and ask yourself every question about the problem you can come up with. Start with the basics.

Who is involved – which letter carrier, which supervisor?

What happened – what specific events are you interested in?

Where exactly did it happen?

When did it happen – what day, what time of day?

Why might it be a grievance – is there a violation of the contract? Which Article and section?

When you have covered these basic questions, try to imagine what management will say about the case, and formulate an argument in response. Look for weak areas that may trip you up, and note the strong points on your own side.

Then go get the answers. Every question must be answered, and every argument you have must be backed up with the facts. Document every point in the union's position, get statements for all relevant witnesses, from the grievant and from management.

When you have finished your investigation, ask your questions again. For example, “How do I know the supervisor poked the carrier with a floor mop?” Answer: I have written statements from 19 people.

When you have all the answers and you have documented all your facts, then you are ready to evaluate the problem and decide whether to file a grievance. If you file, you'll have everything you need. Grievances are won and lost on the basis of your investigation.

Finally, you cannot over-emphasize the importance of through grievance investigation. One of the hardest parts of a union officer's job at Step 3 and arbitration, is try to handle grievances without all the facts. The union depends on the steward for this information. Stewards are closest to the situation, they know the grievant, the supervisor, the station, and they have the best grasp of the problem.

If you really want to win a grievance, you have to conduct a complete investigation. And if you want to help other union reps to win your grievance when you appeal to a higher step of the procedure, then get the Step 2 or Step 3 union people what they need more than anything else – a through investigation and a complete file with all the details, all the statements, and all the documents that prove your case. The union's success in the grievance procedure rides on you, and the effort you put into your investigation.

Remember, the more facts you have, the stronger your position. When you've done all your homework on a case you can go into a grievance meeting and face management sure of the facts and sure of the strength of your case.

Even if the grievance is denied at Step 1, or Step 2, your investigation will make or break the case at Step 3, or at arbitration. When your representative in your National Business Agents' office discusses a grievance at Step 3, or takes the case to arbitration, the facts that you have collected make all the difference. No Postal Service official, or arbitrator, is going to give us what we want when we don't have the facts. In fact more and more arbitrators are ruling that facts or evidence not submitted at Step 2 are not admissible at arbitration.

Obviously, it takes a lot of work to investigate a grievance properly. You almost have to be a lawyer in looking up and analyzing technical rules and regulations, and you almost have to be a full-time detective to find all the facts and put them together. But, all that work is worth the trouble. When the union wins a grievance, we win because we have all the facts to back up our case.

Remember that when you investigate your (our) grievances – that you make or break the case in your investigation.

352.734 News Media Representatives

Fees are charged only for duplication under 352.722, except that the first 100 pages provided in response to a request are without charge (see also the general waiver provision in 352.771). To be eligible for the reduction of fees applicable to this category, the requester must meet the criteria in Exhibit 352.71 and the request must not be made for a commercial use.

352.735 All Other Requesters

Fees are charged for search and duplication under 352.721 and 352.722, except that the first 100 pages of duplication and the first 2 hours of search time are provided without charge (see also 352.771 and 352.772).

352.74 Aggregating Requests

When the custodian reasonably believes that a requester is attempting to break a request down into a series of requests to evade the assessment of fees, the custodian may aggregate the requests and charge accordingly. The custodian does not aggregate multiple requests when the requests pertain to unrelated subject matter. Requests made by more than one requester may be aggregated only when the custodian has a concrete basis on which to conclude that the requesters are acting in concert to avoid payment of fees.

352.75 Other Costs352.751 Publications

Publications and other printed materials may, to the extent of availability in sufficient quantity, be provided at any established price or cost to the Postal Service. Fees established for printed materials pursuant to laws, other than FOIA, are not subject to waiver or reduction under 352.7.

352.752 Other Charges

When a response to a request requires services or materials other than the common ones listed in 352.721, 352.722, and 352.723, the direct cost of these services or materials to the Postal Service may be charged, but only if the requester is notified of the nature and estimated amount of the cost before it is incurred.

352.753 Change of Address Orders

Although change of address information is not required by FOIA to be made available to the public, the fee for obtaining this information under 352.44a is included in this section as a matter of convenience. The fee for searching for a change of address order is $3. This fee is charged whether or not a permanent change of address is found on file (see 352.775).

352.76 Advance Notice and Payment of Fees352.761 Liability and Payment

The requester is responsible, subject to limitations on liability provided by this section, for the payment of all fees for services from the request, even if responsive records are not located or are determined to be exempt from disclosure. Checks in payment of fees must be made payable to the United States Postal Service.

The issue in this grievance is whether or not management must supply the local union with a list of all employees who applied for non-bargaining unit positions.

It was agreed that, if the local union provided a list of officers and stewards, the Postal Service will indicate which (if any) applied for a supervisory position within the past two years.

The issue in these cases is whether management was required to provide access to an employees Employee Assistance Program (EAP) records and Official Personnel Folder (OPF) without the consent of the employee.

During our discussion, we mutually agreed to make available any discipline records found in the OPF of that employee and allow the union's representatives to review these records.

The Supervisor's refusal to provide a letter carrier steward with a supervisor's personal notes of discussions the supervisor had with an employee concerning his sick leave was not unreasonable where there was no dispute as to the number of such discussions or their content. Article XVII, Section 3 of the 1978 National Agreement does not under these circumstances require the supervisor to provide the steward with his personal notes of the discussions.

M-00560 Step 4, April 29 1980, N8S 0255

Management may provide as steward with information requested for review at his or her work location rather than releasing the steward for the purpose of travel to a central facility to review the requested information.

The union is entitled to copies of a D-2 document, a locally developed (discipline) form. The union's request to review the documents, files, and other records, including the D-2 form, that are necessary for processing a grievance or determining if a grievance exists shall not be unreasonably denied.

M-00626 Step 4, March 28, 1977, NCS 4432

Under the terms and conditions of the National Agreement, the Union is entitled to review all relevant and material information associated with a grievance being pursued by the Union, which included information developed as a result of investigating a particular incident directly associated with the grievance.

M-00674 Step 4

June 26, 1992, H7C-3B-C 37176

The charges imposed by the Employer for information furnished pursuant to Article 31 of the National Agreement will not be greater than charges imposed by the Postal Service for release of information under the Freedom of Information Act.

Union requests made pursuant to Article 31 of the National Agreement are covered by Parts 352.634, All Other Requesters, and 352.64, Aggregating Requests, of the Administrative Support Manual, Issue 8, August 1991.

M-01094 Step 4

May 21, 1992, H7N-5K-C 23406

The issue in this grievance is whether the National Agreement requires management to provide the union with copies of information relevant to the filing of a grievance.

During our discussion, we agreed that upon request of the union, the Employer will furnish information necessary to determine whether to file or continue processing of a grievance, provided the employer may require the Union to reimburse the USPS for any costs reasonably incurred in obtaining the information. If obtaining such information includes providing copies, those copies will be provided.

We mutually agreed that the release of medical records to the union without an employee's authorization is provided for in the Administrative Support Manual, Appendix (USPS 120.190), EL-806, and by Articles 17 and 31 of the National Agreement.

M-00881 Step 4
November 16, 1988, H7N-1P-C 2187

The release of medical records to the Union is provided for in the Administrative Support Manual, Appendix (p. 42) (USPS 120.090). Accordingly, this grievance is sustained and the records in dispute will be provided to the union.

M-00459 Step 4, June 27, 1977, NCC-5980
Steward's request was extremely broad in scope and involved medical records. Since no justification was provided, the request was denied.

C-13674 Regional Arbitrator Maher
May 18, 1994, A90N -4A-C 94006287

The Arbitrator holds when the USPS seeks to take disciplinary action against an employee and relies upon medical records as evidence and the basis for its initial determination, the right to privacy vis a vis medical records not being released is no longer within the protected confines of physician and patient. That veil had been pierced by management's initiation of discipline of which the bona fides would be decided in an adversarial proceeding necessitating union representation of the Grievant. Therein lies the intent and explicit and explicit requirements of Articles 17 and 31 which provides that the Employer shall furnish to the union information requested in the processing of a grievance.

C-11716 Supplemental Award

The union is entitled to information concerning the disciplinary records of supervisors when it is necessary for the processing of a grievance.

M-01160 Prearb
December 16, 1993, H7N-1E-C 23870

It was mutually agreed that the release of information regarding supervisors was provided for in Arbitrator Snow's award in H7N-5C-C 12397 and in an NLRB settlement signed by the parties on August 3, 1993.
